The white paper discusses the findings of a series of focus groups – Government-Industry Partnerships for EA Excellence – designed to delve into some of the issues impacting Federal EA programs today.

Citizant's Alba Alemán (president) and Adel Harris (EA Solutions Director) discussed topics such as the upcoming change in administration, budgetary constraints, workforce challenges and information sharing roadblocks with 25 executives and EA practitioners from across the Federal government.

"I am a strong believer in the value of a public-private partnership and collaboration across federal agencies to optimize IT assets and investments," commented Alemán. "A continuous dialogue across the Federal Enterprise Architecture community is essential to bridging the gap that exists between business objectives and IT solutions."
